Fashions for March—Hlustrations (furnished by Brodle in advance of their appearance)—Promenand Costume and Child's Bress; Bonnet; Chemisette; Under-Sieven Harper's Magazin; pays more money every month for original contributions to its pages, to american authors, editors, and artists—and thus does more for the encouragement of American talent—than any other two Magazines in the United States. It pays a higher price for matter which its editors consider desirable, and buys at that prise more of it than any similar periodical in America. It does not profess to be made up wholly of original contributions. It aims to give the best reading, no matter where it may come from ; and whonever it conductors can procure from American authors better literary matter than they can find elsewhere, they get it; and they pay proces for it which would astenish even some of the English magazines. New York Dally Times.

* The plan keeps curiosity allve, and, with the contents of the magazine, it will be abundantly gratified, each number containing as much matter as a volume of Macaulay's History of England, and sold at the ridiculously lew price of 22 cents.—London Times.

The circulation of Blashwood's Magazines has neverbeen lower thas 7,500 a month; it has been as high as 10, 60; and some numbers have been reprinted more than once. At present the sale is not less than 9,000 a month. The retail price of each number is sixty cents. Take the whole 9,000 at the trade price of forty cents exch, and the returns will be £750 per month, or £9,000 per annum. It must be borne in mmit that Blackwood has been swarly forty years in existence. As a contrast and to et which must be taken authorially, composition, acvertising and paper. The magazine, these things considered, probably yi Joha an et profit of atomit £5,500 per annum. It must be borne in mmit that Blackwood has been swarly forty years in existence. plus literary instruction and envertament to 1,040,00 (oreaders.—From "Nocies Ambrostane," edited by Dr. Sheiten Mackenie.

One thing we are gratified in still being able to say namely, that this popular magazine, while it does all that is tawful to court popularity, never descends to caler for it by administering to opinions or progenities injurious to good morals or social order. It is surely a subject of gratulation to every Christian man, that at a time when a considerable portion of the press is diligent by engaged in spreading broaddest ever our country works of infidel tendency, and most limitations attacks on which the social compact and social obligation are based, that a work of such extensive dividuals in a Harper's Magazine should take the size of virtue, and, through not extrusively a religious work, always auxiliary to libble truth and cound morality.—[vew York Christian Advocate and Journal.

Terms.—The magazine may be obtained of bootsellers, periodical agents, or from the publishers, at three dollars a soid at two dollars each, and the mastin covers are trustaked to those who wish to have their back numbers uniformly bound, at twenty five cents a number. The senal-annual volumes, as completed, nearly bound in clota, are soid at two dollars each, and the muslim covers are trustaked to those who wish to have their back numbers uniformly bound, at twenty five cents each. Nine volumes are now ready, bound.

The publishers will supply specimen numbers gratuituously to agents and nontinasters, and will make liberal arrangements with them for circulating the magazine. They will also supply clabs, of two persons at two dollars a year, or five persons at ten dollars. Clergymen supplied at two dollars a year.
